ABOUT THE INSTITUTE

Hamdard Institute of Medical Sciences & Research (HIMSR) in New Delhi is aimed at furthering its scope in the life sciences domain and providing quality healthcare. It has been established with the objective to develop patterns of high standard teaching in undergraduate and post-graduate medical education and to further bring together in one place training facilities of highest order in the medical and allied health care branches. HIMSR is one of the rapidly emerging post graduate teaching tertiary care hospitals in NCR, focusing deeply on medical research and development. Hamdard Institute of Medical Sciences & Research is a great leap forward in line with the vision of its founders, establishing the philosophy of Hamdard "Compassion, Concern, Care and sharing in pain."

The institute has initiated a multidisciplinary Antimicrobial Stewardship Programme to streamline the rational use of antimicrobials and prevent development of antimicrobial resistance at the associated HAHC Hospital.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CME

Antimicrobials are by far one of the most common groups of drugs used in a health care facility. Inappropriate and irrational prescription, dispensing and use have led to development of antimicrobial resistance which results in minimization of the 'lifespan' of antimicrobial drugs and therefore limit available treatment options. Moreover, very few new antimicrobials that have interfered with this alarming trend have become available within the last three decades. Therefore, there is an urgent need to preserve the currently available drugs. The irrational use of antimicrobials also leads to adverse drug events (ADE) and drug toxicity which ultimately culminates to longer duration of illness and prolonged hospital stay and increase in total expenditure. Through this conference we aim to sensitize the participants on the rational and evidence based use of antimicrobials and to encourage the exchange of expertise and ideas across a wide range of disciplines in the field of antimicrobials. The objective of this awareness campaign is to propose the idea of a multi-faceted antimicrobial stewardship strategy through our august panel of experts. We take this opportunity to urge all the stake holders to deliberate on the implications and take antimicrobial stewardship to its logical and attainable culmination.
